

Thursday Morning Prayer
James Trivette 5.19.2011

Last Call

What shall I say? Should I tell you of the many trials that await the earth, or should I reveal the joy of My salvation? I will tell you both, I will tell you all. For the picture is only complete when I reveal My whole plan. For I will manifest myself through you, My church in the last days. I will bring conviction and healing, pain and joy. But the end will bring glory to Me and to My church as many are rescued. Choose you this day who you will serve, for time of confusion is at hand for those that do not know Me. Though I desire that none should perish. Many will perish, and neither you nor I will change that. Soon I will require of you the truth of My righteousness and holiness to be declared. As John the Baptist declared, so will you. "Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand". Only repentance will bring revival. Only My conviction will bring repentance. If there were another way, would I not do it? Study My word and be ready to declare My truth for the time is near. Understand that it is your act of love that declares the judgment of truth, because it will not bring pleasure nor favor. But if you will speak as I speak, I will send My Spirit to confirm the word and I will unleash the hounds of heaven for the sake of your obedience and love.

Make your list of lost souls and pave the way in prayer. I will make ready the moment. I will move you with compassion. Destruction is near and will wait for no one. But joy and life await those that know their God.
